Winger clipped

Winger clipped ... realize to all public officials, some like to ignore it like Sander Winger, president of the [L.A. City] North valley ... Formation Commission that oversees secession.

And while the law applies to all public officials, some like to ignore it. In 2006, the Local Agency Formation Commission that oversees local governments in the Area Planning Commission, and a staff member of the Local Agency Formation Commission that oversees local governments in the Area Planning Commission, and a staff member of the Local Agency Formation Commission that oversees local governments in the Area Planning Commission.

According to District Attorney Steve Cooley, Winger decided to broach the most controversial topic facing the Planning Commission developer Ted Stein's plans for a residential development in Chatsworth at a meeting where it was not on the public agenda. That's a pretty clear violation of the Brown Act. Just in case Winger didn't know, I carried on with the discussion anyway. Now Cooley has given him a stiff warning and put Mayor James Hahn in the position of having to discipline the commissioners and his to act decisively or appear to condone City Hall's continued arrogance.

Hahn has had two months to act on this. The administration must respect the public and the rule of law. How could he do anything less?
